Dear Dr. Zapanta,

With the recent transition of the course Introduction to the Philosophy of the Human Person (IPHP) into the senior high level in line with the K-12 program, resources for IPHP remain scarce.

Hence, the PHILO-notes Team was created, which hopes to fill this gap with free, reliable, and open-access materials and resources for IPHP and other topics in Philosophy. The said resources are available at our website—philonotes.com and YouTube channel—PHILO-notes.

Our team is dedicated to providing helpful learning materials and resources online, so students and teachers in the Philippines, especially those who do not have a strong background and orientation in philosophy can learn the course anytime, anywhere!

It is for this reason that the PHILO-notes Team promotes these open-access tools to your institution, as we believe that the learning materials and information we provide can be very beneficial in supplementing your institution's current resources.

Lastly, part of our vision is to build a community of Philosophy enthusiasts! Thus we encourage students and teachers to communicate with us! Let's work together to fill the learning gaps!

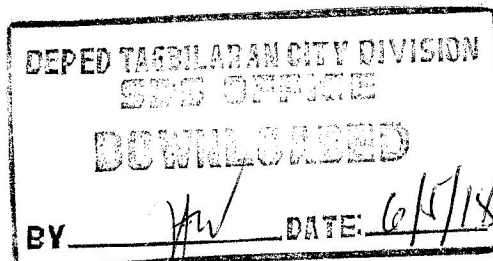

Please see the attached documents for the brochure and other sample materials.

Please feel free as well to forward this email to your school principals and teachers who are handling the course Introduction to Philosophy of the Human Person (IPHP).

Sincerely,

PHILO-notes Team

That this book has seen the light of day is due to the concerted effort of the authors to produce a text that responds to the urgent need of time!

Introduction to the Philosophy of the Human Person

This IPHP book is an essential purchase for your libraries, teachers, and students as this is the most comprehensive guide of its kind!

- Top 50 World Compendium
- Each chapter includes review questions and activities for students
- Written for use in school DepEd Compliant

This book guides the students in understanding and appreciating the human person as such—as a being who is not only endowed with mind and body, but a being who is condemned to be free, a being who is fated to be in communion with others in the society, and a being with endless possibilities in the face of death. Thus, students are able to reflect upon the meaning of their very own life!

Learn Philosophy
Anytime, Anywhere!

Introduction to the Philosophy of the Human Person (PHP) - K12

As this course has been offered to the senior high school students in the Philippines just last June 2016, resources in this area of study remains scarce.

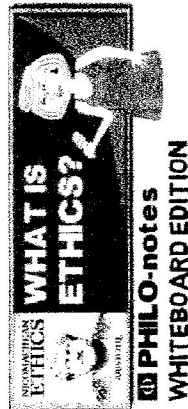

PHILO-notes aims to fill this gap by creating video materials available in YouTube.

YouTube Playlist: Introduction to the Philosophy of the Human Person (PHP)

Voices from Learners ...

PHILO-notes Team is always grateful to our valued viewers for the kind words that inspire us to do more and be better!

Here are few comments on our video titled, Husserl's Phenomenology: Method of Reducing - Key Concepts
PHILO-notes Whiteboard Edition

"The video was great! I've been examining Husserl and I've watched several videos on Husserl but this is the one that made things click. Just wanted you to know that this video will help me greatly."

~ Nate Biggs ~

"There is a huge bag of cement for me. It is brilliant! The art of music is just right. Technical words are explained by their 'meaning' before being used so that they do not obstruct the flow of the delivery of knowledge..." ~ Julius Broibo ~

PHILO-notes Team wishes to hear from you!

Introductory Topics in Symbolic Logic

While PHILo-notes project is initially intended for students and teachers in the Philippines, it is also hoped that students and teachers in philosophy from all corners of the world may find this site helpful.

Thus, PHILo-notes will be posting videos and articles (some are already available at philonotes.com) on relevant Philosophy topics, such as:

- Symbolic Logic (sample playlist above)
- Philosophy (sample video below)
