I. Introduction

In 2002, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 57/254 and declared the period 2005-2014 as the "United Nations Decade of Education for Sustainable Development" (DESD).

In its declaration, the United Nations General Assembly defined ESD (Education for Sustainable Development) as a "learning process (or approach to teaching) based on the ideals and principles that underline sustainability and is concerned with all levels and types of learning to provide quality education and foster sustainable human development – learning to know, learning to be, learning to live together, learning to do and learning to transform oneself and society."

At the end of the DESD in 2014, the UNESCO World Conference held in Japan announced the Global Action Programme (GAP) on ESD aimed at generating and scaling up ESD actions at all levels and in all areas of education, training and learning to accelerate progress towards sustainable development to the post-2015 agenda.

While ESD is implemented worldwide under the GAP, in support of further promoting ESD in Southeast Asia, the Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization (SEAMEO) and the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, Japan (MEXT), in cooperation with the UNESCO Asia and Pacific Regional Bureau for Education, have shown their collective commitment to promoting best practices in ESD in schools across Southeast Asia by organising the SEAMEO-Japan Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) Award. The award scheme has been held annually since 2012.

In 2015, the United Nations General Assembly adopted 70/1 Resolution which determined the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Two years after the resolution, the United Nations General Assembly reaffirmed that ESD was an integral element of SDGs on quality education and a key enabler of all the other Goals (SDGs) in its Resolution 72/222. Against that background, significance of ESD Award will be recast in light of its contribution to achieving the SDGs.

The objectives of the SEAMEO-Japan ESD Award are:

1. To raise awareness of ESD in schools and communities across Southeast Asia;
2. To promote ESD best practices in schools and communities across Southeast Asia;
3. To share and exchange knowledge and best practices on ESD in schools across Southeast Asia and Japan;
4. To encourage networking among schools and communities which implement ESD practices in Southeast Asian countries and Japan; and
5. To support the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) of United Nations.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

*The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) consist of 17 integrated and interdependent global goals with associated 169 targets, which aim to shift the world on to a path towards sustainable and resilient development.

<https://sustainabledevelopment.un.org/sdgs>

II. Theme for 2019: “Building Peace in Schools and Communities”

“No one is born hating another person because of the color of his skin, or his background, or his religion. People must learn to hate, and if they can learn to hate, they can be taught to love, for love comes more naturally to the human heart than its opposite.”- Nelson Mandela<sup>1</sup>

In an increasingly diverse world, it is essential for students to learn about diversity and acceptance from one another at an early age. Fear of difference is often the root of bullying behavior, just as it is the root of discrimination and prejudice.<sup>2</sup>

Considering the increasing of conflicts and violence happened in our societies, the 2019 SEAMEO-Japan ESD Award selects the theme “Building Peace in Schools and Communities”

The most significant way of promoting a culture of peace is through peace education. Peace education does not simply mean learning about conflicts and how to resolve them carefully. It should also involve participation of young people in expressing their own ideas, and cooperating with each other in order to eliminate violence in our individual lives, in our communities, and in our societies<sup>3</sup>.

Peace education, or an education that promotes a culture of peace, is essentially transformative<sup>4</sup>. Peace education is the process of acquiring the values, the knowledge, and developing the attitudes, skills, and behaviors to live in harmony with oneself, with others, and with the natural environment<sup>5</sup>. With the help of peace education, people can learn to have mutual respect for each other, and celebrate each and every human being’s uniqueness and humanity<sup>6</sup>.

The objectives of this year’s award scheme are:

1. To raise awareness of peace education and sustainable development in schools and communities in Southeast Asia and Japan.
2. To promote and share initiatives and good practices that support sustainable development through the integration of peace education into the holistic school programme and the school’s contributions in improving/developing “culture of peace” in the communities.
3. To encourage schools to develop and improve current ESD activities and programmes.

Under the theme of “Building Peace in Schools and Communities,” the school entry should cover the following criteria:

1. The entry should be relevant to the theme, and provide details of “Peace Education” that the school has applied for building peace in the school environment and in the community.

The entry can be related to some of the following issues, but not limited to:

- Preventing bullying
- Conflict management and resolutions
- Violence reduction
- Non-discrimination
- Human rights
- Gender equality

- Inter-cultural understanding
  - Interfaith
  - etc. which is related to building the 'Culture of Peace'
2. The entry should demonstrate how the school's programme can promote the culture of peace through community engagement that create mutual beneficial partnerships, deepen student learning experiences, support student growth, and sustain the society.
  3. The entry should demonstrate the transformation of "knowledge", "skills", "attitudes/values", "behaviors", and "daily practices" of students, parents and community after participating in the school's programme.
  4. The entry should demonstrate clear information dissemination on how the school transfers the knowledge or shares the practices to other schools, and to people in the communities for building the culture of peace.
  5. The school should clearly demonstrate the integration of peace education in all schools' aspects such as school policy, management plan, curriculum, teaching and learning practices, co-curricular and student activities, partnership efforts, community participation, and so on. (Please refer to the "Submission Form".)
