1. Consistent with the Department of Education's (DepEd) thrust to strengthen the culture of evidence-based decision-making and policy development, Research O'clock is being conducted through the Planning Service-Policy Research Development Division (PS-PRDD) to promote the use of research results and evidence in decision-making, program designing and implementation, and to plan formulation and adjustment in the basic education sector. Started in 2018, this research dissemination forum convenes educators, researchers, program implementers, education leaders, and policymakers to discuss gains and challenges in education and provide valuable inputs.

Individual episodes will highlight emerging evidence of effective practices and innovations in continually providing quality and inclusive basic education under a public health emergency.
